Client Testimonial : ESTAMPRO

Estampro, supplier to many OEMs in the transport industry, always wants to offer more to its customers. What is the secret to their remarkable 15% annual growth? According to Dominic Fortin, sales director, “our approach is truly customer-driven and has contributed to increase our market shares in our business sector. Respecting our clients and their delays are key elements in our development strategy”.

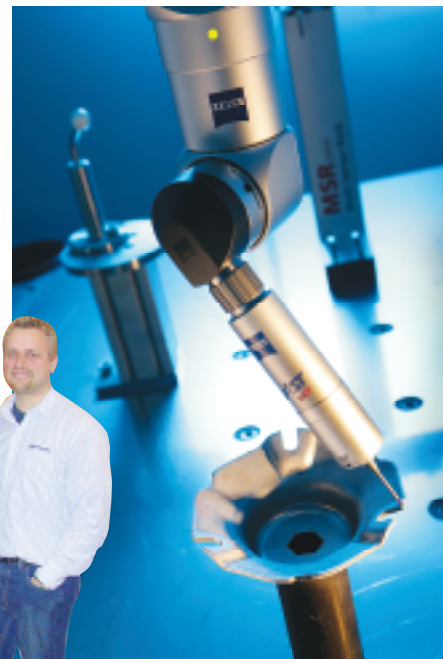

An innovative firm, Estampro is betting on its overseas procurement strategy in order to better control its supply chain and increase its productivity.

Everyone at Sixpro is proud of our 20-year business relationship with Estampro, who uses our ecoating, and powder coating both alone and combined to meet the requirements of Novabus, Volvo (trucks), and Komatsu, just to name a few OEMs.

In the spotlight!

Dynamic duo :
ecoat plus powder coating !

Do your products require optimal performance and durability ? Benefit from the dual power of electrocoating followed by a topcoat of powder coating!

E-coating has a definite advantage in that it covers confined and recessed areas, providing 100% coverage and leaving a very thin coating, hence not requiring masking of threads.

As for powder coating, the application process involves applying a charge to dry powder particles and spraying them onto an oppositely charged part. The powder, once attracted to the part, is then held onto the surface until it is melted and cured into a smooth coating film in a baking oven.

This dynamic duo will result in great protection against corrosion and harsh environments with salt spray results easily attaining 2,500 hours.

25 years

Our 25th anniversary celebrations would not have been complete, had we not mentioned two pioneers instrumental in our business development, namely Michel Pelchat, our founding president from 1982-1992, followed by Marcel Bergeron from 1992-2001.

A true developer, Michel Pelchat felt there was a future in powder coating, and had the audacity to go in a market then fully occupied by liquid paint.

Now at the head of Plastiques M.P., Michel continues to lead his team with the same energy he had when he was with Sixpro.

The 90's were lead by Marcel Bergeron as a great coach and entrepreneur. Marcel's decision to install a full electrocoating line at the cost of millions of dollars contributed to our developing the transport and automobile industry. Today, Marcel sits on many companies' boards and firms benefit from his great experience and knowledge.

Charismatic, fully devoted and passionate about Sixpro, these were qualities both shared and which have influenced our company's culture today.

Thank you from all of us at Sixpro!
